MONDAY
19 OCTOBER 18[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RU[illegible] ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and Misty with Chan

HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

S[illegible] to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry ha[illegible] extraordinary transformation!

[illegible] been reorganized, and previously overlooked [illegible] open[illegible] student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

H[illegible] Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating [illegible] curious invention known as Discord.

[illegible] communicate [illegible]ly a[illegible] enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

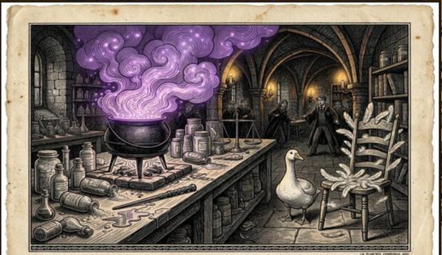
Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

"Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic." The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to [illegible] Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle [illegible].

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed [illegible] student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished [illegible].

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.



THE UNFORTUNATE CONSEQUENCE OF A TRANSFIGURATION INGREDIENT.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

▯ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

▯ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

▯ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

▯ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw [illegible] traditionally [illegible] to their Common Room by answering an esoteric [illegible]

[illegible] DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 1[illegible]: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly [illegible] hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." – PROFESSOR [illegible]

▯▯▯▯ ▯ GOOD NEWS, BRIGHTER DAYS, A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW ▯ ▯▯▯▯

DAILY PROPHET

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

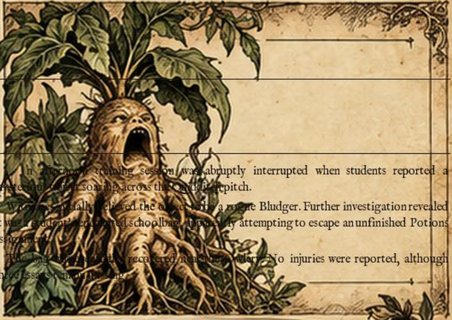
The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this [illegible] to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using [illegible] called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a [illegible] could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of [illegible] correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle [illegible].



An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October [illegible]: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." – PROFESSOR

MONDAY
[illegible] OCTOBER 18[illegible]
EDITION [illegible]

DUJEN [illegible]PHET

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CANDLE WEATHER
[illegible] Chan[illegible]

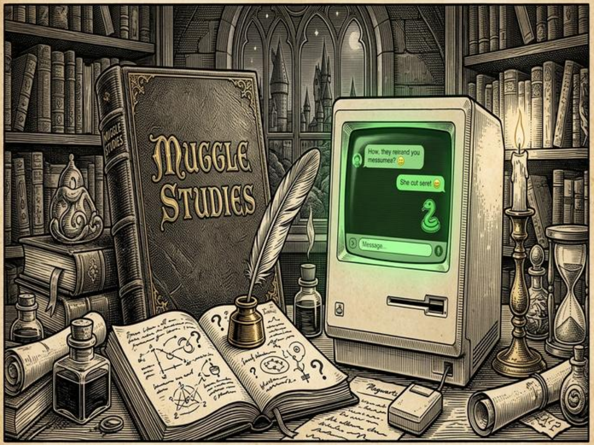
HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

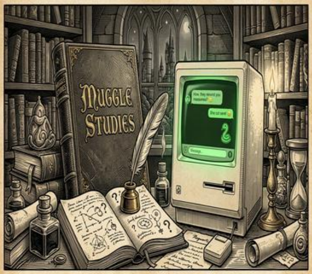
Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Professor baffled by peculiar Muggle communication invention.



MUGGLE STUDIES
How, they reisand you messumea?
She cut sere!
Message...



Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has warned students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first rec[illegible] was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to the ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

DAILY PROPHET

□ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER □

NEWS □ SPELLS □ EVENTS □ RUMOURS □ HOGWARTS □ THE MINISTRY

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students [illegible] for specific announcements [illegible] maintenance, developing new [illegible] roleplay [illegible].

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

[illegible] awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry [illegible] a rather extraordinary transformation.

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been [illegible].

[illegible] changes are part of an extensive effort to improve [illegible] life. [illegible] now [illegible] to their respective student [illegible].

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a single green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical [illegible] without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting [illegible] Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

□ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

□ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

□ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

□ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike other houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric riddle.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircase [illegible] according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." — PROFESSOR FIG

[illegible] training [illegible] was [illegible] when [illegible] across the [illegible].

Witnesses initially believed [illegible] to be [illegible] Bludgers, [illegible] investigation revealed it [illegible] student's enchanted [illegible] bag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished [illegible] assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although [illegible] remain [illegible].

□ □□□ □ GOOD NEWS, BRIGHTER DAYS, A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW □ □□□ □

NDAY
OCTOBER 1890
EDITION NO. 317

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and [illegible] Chan

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RUMOURS ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

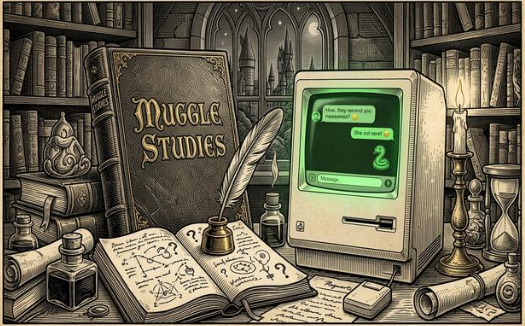
The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Students and faculty awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation.

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER

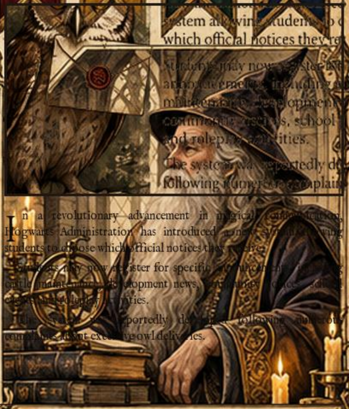


Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.



system allowing students to c
which official notices they re

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly d following numerous complai

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 17, [illegible] the first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

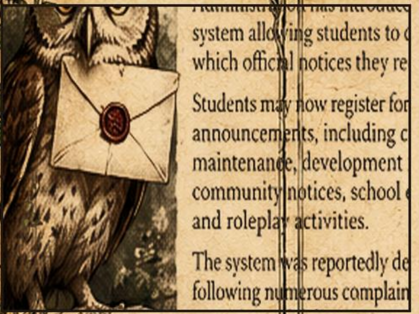
MONDAY
19 OCTOBER 1890
EDITION NO. 317

[illegible]

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and M[illegible] with Chan

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!



system allowing students to c
which official notices they re

Students may now register for announcements, including c maintenance, development community notices, school and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly de following numerous complain

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

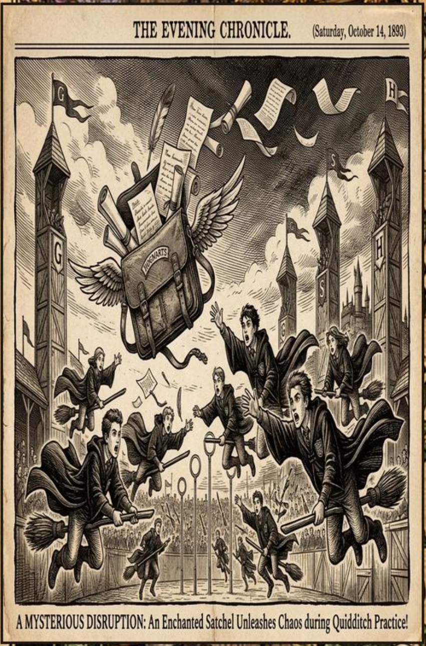
Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!



THE EVENING CHRONICLE. (Saturday, October 14, 1893)

A MYSTERIOUS DISRUPTION: An Enchanted Satchel Unleashes Chaos during Quidditch Practice!

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object [illegible] across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object [illegible] Bludger. Further [illegible] revealed [illegible] attempting to [illegible] their [illegible] assig[illegible]

[illegible] although three essays remain missing.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

MONDAY
19 OCTOBER 1990
EDITION [illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

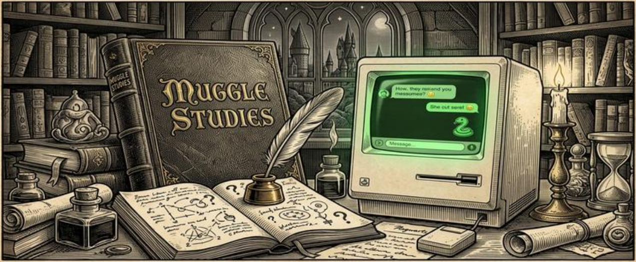
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and Misty with [illegible]an

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.



MUGGLE STUDIES
How, they [illegible] you [illegible]?
She cut [illegible]!
Message...

H[illegible] Muggle Studies [illegible] begun [illegible] a curious invention [illegible] Discord.

According [illegible] preliminary findings [illegible] this extraordinary device [illegible] Muggles to communicate instantly [illegible] enormous distances without the assistance [illegible] Powder or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users [illegible] communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was [illegible] to discover that a simple green [illegible] [illegible] House allegiance.

[illegible] managed to devise a form of [illegible] without possessing [illegible] ounce of [illegible] of Magical [illegible] and [illegible] against attempting [illegible] Muggle computer.

A [illegible] afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object [illegible] across the Quidditch pitch.

[illegible] initially believed the object to be a rogue [illegible]. Further investigation revealed it was a [illegible] enchanted schoolbag apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. [illegible] were reported, although three [illegible] remain missing.

HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick [illegible] smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in [illegible] and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a [illegible] goose. The professor has declined to comment [illegible] has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first [illegible] appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

[illegible] PROFESSOR [illegible]

MONDAY
1[illegible] OCTOBER 189[illegible]
EDITION N[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
[illegible] and Mi[illegible]

NEWS □ SPELLS □ EVENTS □ RUMOURS □ HOGWARTS □ THE MINISTRY

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly been investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emoji. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a single green snake could communicate one's House allegiance.

Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing any trace of magic!" The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle [illegible].

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object zooming across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

Students and faculty awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation!

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

□ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

□ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

□ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

□ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric riddle.

□ Hogwarts Castle: Cloudy skies, scattered enchantments, and a [illegible]% chance of students being late to class.

□ Forbidden Forest: Dense fog, suspicious noises, and absolutely no reason to investigate after sunset.

□ Great Hall: Warm atmosphere with occasional showers of pumpkin juice.

□ Slytherin Common Room: Cool, mysterious, and an exceptionally high concentration of ambition.

[illegible]
[illegible] OCTOBER [illegible]
[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: [illegible]
[illegible] WEATHER
[illegible]

In a [illegible] advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to [illegible] which official notices they receive.

Students [illegible] register for specific announcements, including [illegible] development news, community notices, school [illegible] and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Students [illegible] woke [illegible] morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of [illegible] Wizardry had undergone [illegible] transformation!

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously [illegible] gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve [illegible] life. Perhaps most exciting[illegible] House Common Rooms [illegible] accessible to their respective students.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly been investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted [illegible] apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

□ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

□ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

□ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

□ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric riddle.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? [illegible]

The [illegible] enchanted [illegible] hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." — PROFESSOR FIG

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."

— PROFESSOR FIG