MONDAY
19 OCTOBER 18[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RU[illegible] ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and Misty with Chan

HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

S[illegible] the [illegible] to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry have [illegible] extraordinary transformation!

[illegible] been reorganized, and previously overlooked [illegible] open [illegible] student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

[illegible] communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

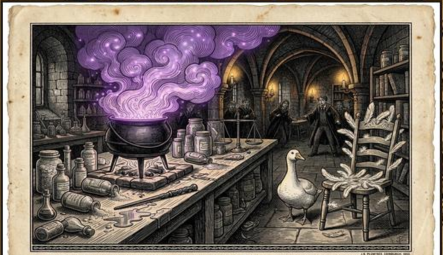
Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

"Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic." The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to use Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it to be a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished [illegible].

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.



The Unfortunate Consequence of a Transfiguration Ingredient.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

▯ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

▯ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

▯ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

▯ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw [illegible] traditionally [illegible] to their Common Room by answering an esoteric [illegible].

[illegible] DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October [illegible]: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." – PROFESSOR D[illegible]

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

I[illegible] revolutionary [illegible] in [illegible] Administration has in[illegible]

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

□ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER □

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts A[illegible] introduced a new system allow[illegible] choose w[illegible]ices they receive.

[illegible] now register for specific announcements, including castle m[illegible]elopment news, community notices, [illegible] and role[illegible]

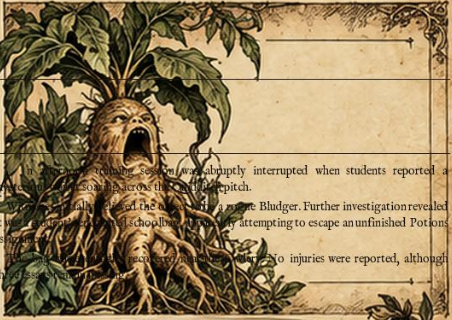
[illegible] reportedly developed following numerous complaints a[illegible] excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has [illegible] curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this [illegible] communicate instantly across enormous distances without th[illegible] of owls, Floo P[illegible] or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently co[illegible] called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a[illegible] communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to inv[illegible] correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of M[illegible] advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning M[illegible]



A[illegible] training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a m[illegible] soaring across the Q[illegible]pitch.

W[illegible] believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it w[illegible] schoolbag, [illegible] attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag [illegible] recovered [illegible] No injuries were reported, although three essays [illegible]

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

Octob[illegible]: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Dep[illegible] of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witch[illegible]ards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand s[illegible] move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena R[illegible]. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the d[illegible]ons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

[illegible] choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." – PROFESS[illegible]

MONDAY
[illegible] OCTOBER 18[illegible]
EDITION [illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

[illegible] ONE KNUT
[illegible] WEATHER
[illegible] Chan[illegible]

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RUMOURS ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

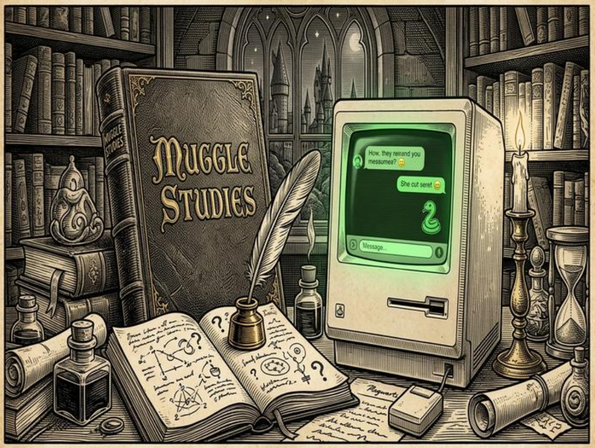
HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

In a r[illegible]utionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts A[illegible]stration has introduced a new system allowing students to ch[illegible] which official notices they receive.

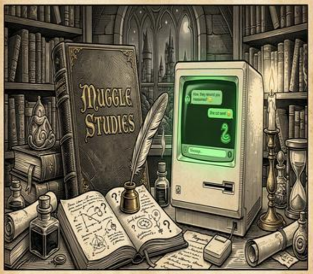
Students [illegible] register [illegible]ic announcements, including castle maint[illegible] development [illegible]s, community notices, school events [illegible]eplay activities.

[illegible] system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Professor baffled by peculiar Muggle communication invention.



MUGGLE STUDIES
How, they remind you messures?
She cut seret!
Message...



Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has warned students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first rec[illegible] was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The [illegible] staircases move according to the ancient harmoni[illegible] enchantments placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and [illegible] flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

▯▯▯▯ GOOD NEWS, BRIGHTER DAYS, A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW ▯▯▯▯

DAILY PROPHET

▯ THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER ▯

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RUMOURS ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students [illegible] for [illegible] announcements [illegible] maintenance, developments in new [illegible] activities, [illegible] roleplay [illegible].

The system was reportedly developed following [illegible] about excessive owl deliveries.

[illegible] awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of [illegible] and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation.

[illegible] corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked [illegible] spaces have been [illegible].

[illegible] changes are part of an extensive effort to improve [illegible] life. [illegible] accessible to their respective students.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a single green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical [illegible] without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

> "It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."
>
> — PROFESSOR FIG

▯ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

▯ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

▯ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

▯ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric [illegible]

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircase [illegible] according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." — PROFESSOR FIG

[illegible] training [illegible] which [illegible] across the [illegible].

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger, but further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted [illegible] bag, apparently [illegible] escape an [illegible] assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, [illegible] remain [illegible].

▯ ▯▯▯ ▯ GOOD NEWS, BRIGHTER DAYS, A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW ▯ ▯▯▯ ▯

[illegible]NDAY
[illegible] OCTOBER 1890
EDITION NO. 317

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and [illegible] Chan

NEWS □ SPELLS □ EVENTS □ RUMOURS □ HOGWARTS □ THE MINISTRY

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

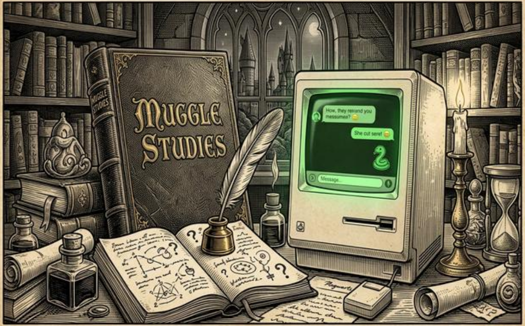
The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Students and faculty awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation.

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

THE WIZARDING WORLD'S MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER

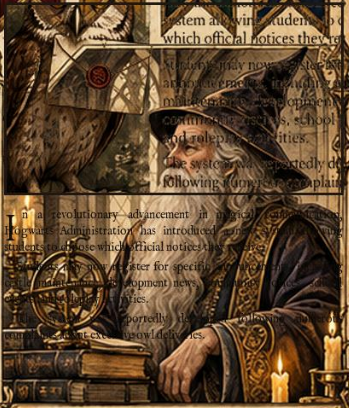


Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.



system allowing students to c
which official notices they re
Students may now register for announcements, including maintenance, development
community notices, school
and roleplay activities.
The system was reportedly de following numerous complaints

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October [illegible] first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

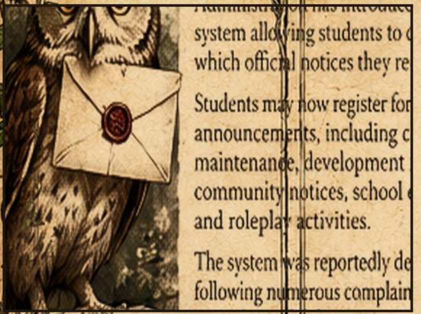
□ □□□ □ GOOD NEWS, BRIGHTER DAYS, A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW □ □□□ □

MONDAY
19 OCTOBER 1890
EDITION NO. 317

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
Mild and Misty with Chan

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!



Administration has introduced
system allowing students to c
which official notices they re

Students may now register for announcements, including c
maintenance, development
community notices, school
and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly de following numerous complain

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake ▯ could communicate one's House allegiance.

'Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!' The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

THE FOUR HOUSES AWAIT YOU!

THE EVENING CHRONICLE. (Saturday, October 14, 1893)

A MYSTERIOUS DISRUPTION: An Enchanted Satchel Unleashes Chaos during Quidditch Practice!

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed [illegible] student's [illegible] attempting to [illegible] assignment.

[illegible] although three essays remain missing.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

Mo[illegible]day
19 OC[illegible]BER [illegible]
[illegible]ITION[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

[illegible]
[illegible]ASTLE WEATHER
Mild and Misty w[illegible]an

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RUM[illegible] ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

OWL POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW DELIVERY SYSTEM!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

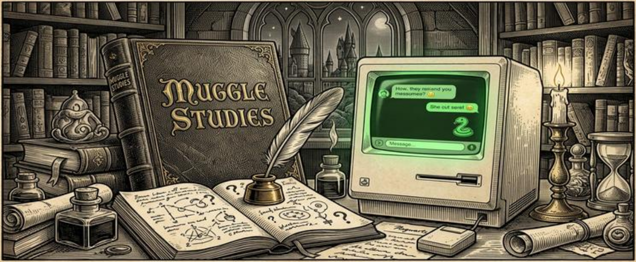
Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events, and display activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

[illegible] afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object [illegible] the Quidditch pitch.

[illegible] initially believed the object to be a rogue [illegible]. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag apparently attempting [illegible] escape [illegible] assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. [illegible] were reported, although three essays remain missing.



HOGWARTS UNDERGO[illegible] [illegible]S TRANSFORMATION

H[illegible] Muggle Studies department [illegible] begun [illegible] a curious [illegible] discord.

Acc[illegible] preliminary findings, this extraordinary device [illegible] Muggles to communicate instantly [illegible] enormous distances without the assistance [illegible] Powder or enchanted mirrors.

[illegible] more astonishing, users [illegible] pictures called emojis. [illegible] professor was [illegible] to discover that a [illegible] green [illegible] one [illegible] house allegiance.

[illegible] managed [illegible] a form [illegible] without possessing [illegible] ounce of [illegible] of Magical [illegible] students [illegible] Muggle [illegible].

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick [illegible] smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in [illegible], and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a [illegible] goose. The professor has declined to comment [illegible] has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepu[illegible].

T[illegible]S DAY IN WI[illegible]

October 22, 1[illegible]: The first [illegible] appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

[illegible]YOU KNOW? HOGWARTS LORE

The castle's grand staircases move according to an ancient harmonic enchantment placed by Rowena Ravenclaw herself. Exactly one hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

[illegible]
PRO[illegible]ESSO[illegible]

MONDAY
1[illegible] OCTOBER 18[illegible]
EDITION N[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: ONE KNUT
CASTLE WEATHER
[illegible] and Mi[illegible]

NEWS ▯ SPELLS ▯ EVENTS ▯ RUMOURS ▯ HOGWARTS ▯ THE MINISTRY

HOGWARTS UNDERGOES MYSTERIOUS TRANSFORMATION!

In a revolutionary advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to choose which official notices they receive.

Students may now register for specific announcements, including castle maintenance, development news, community notices, school events and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

The Hogwarts Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emoji. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a single green [illegible] could communicate one's House allegiance.

"Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing any magic!" The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle devices.

A late afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when students reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted schoolbag, apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

Students and faculty awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation!

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most excitingly, the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students!

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

▯ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

▯ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

▯ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

▯ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric riddle.

▯ Hogwarts Castle: Cloudy skies, scattered enchantments, and a 70% chance of students being late to class.

▯ Forbidden Forest: Dense fog, suspicious noises, and absolutely no reason to investigate after sunset.

▯ Great Hall: Warm atmosphere with occasional showers of pumpkin juice.

▯ Slytherin Common Room: Cool, mysterious, and an exceptionally high concentration of ambition.

▯ ▯▯▯ ▯ GOOD NEWS. BRIGHTER DAYS. A MORE MAGICAL TOMORROW ▯ ▯▯▯ ▯

MONDAY
[illegible] OCTOBER [illegible]
[illegible]

DAILY PROPHET

PRICE: [illegible]
[illegible] THE WEATHER

NEWS □ SPELLS □ EVENTS □ RUMOURS □ HOGWARTS □ THE MINISTRY

In a [illegible] advancement in magical communication, Hogwarts Administration has introduced a new system allowing students to [illegible] which official notices they receive.

Students [illegible] register for specific announcements, including [illegible] development news, community notices, school [illegible] and roleplay activities.

The system was reportedly developed following numerous complaints about excessive owl deliveries.

Students and staff awoke this morning to discover that the halls of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry had undergone a rather extraordinary transformation!

New chambers have appeared, corridors have been reorganized, and previously overlooked gathering spaces have been opened to the student body.

Hogwarts Administration confirms these changes are part of an extensive effort to improve castle life. Perhaps most exciting: the four House Common Rooms are now accessible to their respective students.

Hogwarts' Muggle Studies department has reportedly begun investigating a curious invention known as Discord.

According to preliminary findings, this extraordinary device allows Muggles to communicate instantly across enormous distances without the assistance of owls, Floo Powder, or enchanted mirrors.

Even more astonishing, users apparently communicate using tiny pictures called emojis. One professor was particularly disturbed to discover that a simple green snake □ could communicate one's House allegiance.

’Extraordinary! They have managed to invent a form of magical correspondence without possessing an ounce of magic!’ The Department of Magical Accidents and Catastrophes has advised students against attempting to cast Reparo on malfunctioning Muggle computers.

□ THE WIZARDING WORLDS MOST ENCHANTING NEWSPAPER □

An afternoon training session was abruptly interrupted when [illegible] reported a mysterious object soaring across the Quidditch pitch.

Witnesses initially believed the object to be a rogue Bludger. Further investigation revealed it was a student's enchanted [illegible] apparently attempting to escape an unfinished Potions assignment.

The bag was eventually recovered near the Owlery. No injuries were reported, although three essays remain missing.

A routine brewing exercise took an unfortunate turn yesterday when an unidentified student allegedly confused powdered moonstone with ordinary baking flour.

The resulting potion produced a thick cloud of violet smoke, caused several cauldrons to sing in harmony, and temporarily turned a classroom chair into a rather irritated goose. The professor has declined to comment. The goose has reportedly requested a transfer to Hufflepuff.

□ The Founders: Hogwarts was established over a thousand years ago by Godric Gryffindor, Salazar Slytherin, Rowena Ravenclaw, and Helga Hufflepuff.

□ The Room of Requirement: A mysterious chamber that appears only when someone has genuine need of it.

□ Hufflepuff Hospitality: The Hufflepuff Common Room is located near the kitchens, making it particularly convenient for students with a fondness for midnight snacks.

□ Ravenclaw's Entrance: Unlike the other Houses, Ravenclaw students traditionally gain entry to their Common Room by answering an esoteric riddle.

THIS DAY IN WIZARDING HISTORY

October 22, 1707: The first recorded official appearance of a Boggart was documented by the Department of Magical Creatures, establishing essential protective guidelines for young witches and wizards.

DID YOU KNOW? [illegible]

The [illegible] hundred and forty-two flights of stairs connect the towers to the dungeons.

WORDS OF WISDOM

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities." — PROFESSOR FIG

"It is our choices that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities."

— PROFESSOR FIG